THE CHAUTAUQUA MEETING AT THE CLUB ROOMS.

Another Big Opportunity by Which Our City Can Secure a Most Desirable Institution.

The DEMOCRAT was first to announce in Sedalia that a movement was on foot whereby the Chautauqua Assembly, which for a number of years has met at Pertle Springs, could be brought to this city by a little enterprise and exertion on the part of her citizens. Pertle Springs has not shown the proper encouragement to the institution, and it is the desire and purpose of its present and board to remove the place of annual meeting to some other point.

The gentlemen having the matter under control are understood to have expressed themselves most strongly in favor of Sedalia, though Clinton and Nevada are strong opponents and are backing up their claims with money. All that the assembly asks is that the expenses be guaranteed to them. Heretofore, the gate receipts have more than balanced the expenses and the Chautauqua is growing in strength and interest every year.

There is also another monetary consideration. Hundreds of families attend the Chautauqua reunion for weeks at a time. Their expenses amount to a large sum and the business men of the city are benefitted by it. Besides this, on special days, entertainments are given in which men of international reputation take part and the attendance swells into the thousands. The class of people who attend the summer meeting of the Chautauqua is the best in the land and it is a pleasure, both socially and intellectually, to meet them.

At 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon there will be a meeting of business men and citizens generally at the Commercial club rooms to consider the proposition of these gentlemen. It is urged upon each and every Sedalian to be present and take possession of the prize. Sedalia cannot afford to lose it.

Real Estate Transfers.

There was but one real estate transfer to-day:

Clara E. Richie sold to T. W. Bast, 2½ acres on Prospect and Henry streets for a consideration of $750.

Jail Release.

Eugene Johnson, who was sentenced to the county jail for eight days for petit larceny, completed his sentence to day and was released.

Struck by Lightning.

The lightning struck a barn, owned by Lyman Littlefield, near Lamonte, Saturday evening. The damage was about $50.

NEARING THE END.

The Republican Campaign Suffering From a Collapse.

The visiting republican statesmen were in a decidedly disgruntled state, says the St. Louis Republic. In the language of one of them: "The weeks are rolling by without anything being accomplished further than a few speeches by Major Warner to small audiences in country towns. The single-handed fight that he is making is in strong contrast to the long list of speakers the democrats have out in the state. When it is remembered that the state has always been overwhelmingly democratic; that Filley and his followers have been eliminated from the republican ranks, and that the state committee is without means to conduct a campaign, it is easily seen that there is nothing to encourage hope. The little stir being made here in the city amounts to nothing, and it is only a surface movement by the Harrison appointees, who must make a show of trying to do something. Outside of a few hundred dollars contributed by them no campaign fund has been raised, nor is there any prospect of a respectable sum being secured. The state committee is in debt $6,000 from the last campaign and although Kerens promised to pay the amount and raise a $100,000 campaign fund; he has not raised over $1,000 including his own subscription. While the state committee complains of the inactivity of the city committee their own do-nothing policy is far more reprehensible. All in the world that they have done is to establish headquarters, make out a list of appointments for Major Warner and distribute a few thousand campaign documents."

There was apparently no disposition on the part of any republican present to champion the cause or an apology for omission and commission.

THE CAMPAIGN.

MOST FLATTERING PROSPECTS FOR THE DEMOCRACY.

A Visit to the Democratic Headquarters—Enthusiastic Democrats Everywhere.

A DEMOCRAT reporter this morning met City Collector Hart, who had arrived yesterday from a brief campaign tour in which he had been taking political observations.

"I visited the democratic state committee headquarters in St. Louis," said Mr. Hart, "and found things moving along nicely. Chairman Salmon was not present at the time, but Secretary Cook, a veteran newspaper man with a wonderful faculty for hard work, had things well in hand and was able to give a most encouraging account of the work being done in the state. The committee is one of the most efficient the party has ever had."

"You visited Springfield did you not?"

"Yes, and I want to tell you the Springfield democrats are hard at work and are going to give a good account of themselves. While I was there Dick Dalton spoke in the city. He was met at the depot by a committee of prominent democrats and was escorted to the hotel with bands and banners. When he spoke the court house was crowded and the address was received with enthusiasm. Many railroad men were present and showed great interest in the address. From Springfield Dalton went to Conway, where he was met by a large audience of farmers. He dealt the third party some hard blows and made a deep impression on his hearers."

"Is there any disaffection among the democratic railroad employees?"

"I cannot see that there is any, nor can I understand any reason why there should be. You must understand that the only beneficial legislation the railroad employees ever received was at the hands of the democratic party, and I do not believe the railroad boys are the kind of men to forget the favors they have received at the hands of that party. Then, again, the railroad men understand that the next general assembly will be democratic and they will be in no sort of shape to make a successful fight for what they want if they turn around now and fight the party which has been friendly to them in the past. Besides, Stone's record is all right, and no man can frame an intelligent reason for opposing him. No, you will find the railroad vote all right in November. The railroad men realize as they never have before that the democratic party is the laboring man's best friend and only protector among political parties."

"You think the party is in good shape, then?"

"Certainly. I have never seen more enthusiasm, nor have I ever seen a campaign in which the issues were more clearly drawn."

A Fireman's Loss.

Fireman Nelson T. Bellas, of the M. & T., is quite a loser by the storm of Saturday. He is erecting a very handsome two-story dwelling on East Tenth street. The carpenter work had so far progressed that the roof was partly shingled and much of the weather-boarding in place.

So strong, however, was the hurricane that the house was badly twisted and came near toppling from its foundation. The cost of repairing will be considerable.

Change of Firm.

A. L. Lee at 703 Ohio street has sold a half interest in his meat market to C. E. Howe and the firm will be known hereafter as Lee & Howe. Mr. Lee thanks his patrons for their kindness in the past and hopes they will continue with him. He also wishes to call attention to Tuesday's special sale. Eight pounds of fine boiling meat for 25 cents. Telephone 30.

A BEAR STORY.

WILL POWELL RETURNS FROM STEAMBOAT SPRINGS.

One of the Grandest Hunting Grounds in the West—The Scenery—No Grizzlies Killed.

Will Powell is back from his big hunt at Steamboat Springs, Colo., looking as brown as any cowboy that ever rode over the range and turned a yearling a somersault with his lariat. Col. and Mrs. John D. Crawford will remain several weeks longer and it is more than probable that the Colonel intends getting a gatling gun and kill old "Mose" before he returns.

Will says the sport was fine and he had the pleasure of killing several big deer. He says it is worth traveling a thousand miles simply to sleep one night in such a climate. You arise in the morning with a clear head, an appetite that would soon bankrupt a man, even at a low price hotel, and a feeling that Corbett would last about one round should you run against him.

The scenery is unexcelled for its grandeur and wildness. Great mountains, covered with dark pines, tower thousands of feet high, while below are deep canyons and fertile little valleys through which flow streams clearer than crystal and cold as ice. There are many surprises for the tenderfoot, as he is quite liable to unexpectedly come across a mountain lion or a bear, while innocently stalking a deer.

Will was asked how many bears he brought home.

"How many? Well, this wasn't bound for St. Louis. On his arrival here he thought he would stroll around and see the city. While so doing he lost his tickets and notified Depotmaster Mont Carnes to that effect. Mr. Carnes traced them to a little negro boy, but the boy denied having them.

Mr. Wright offered a reward of $2 for their return, and just about 20 minutes before the departure of the 12:55 train the same boy that had previously denied all knowledge of them, came up and handed them to Mr. Wright. They allowed him to go free, as they had no proof that he really had them on his person when they first saw him.

GRAHAM'S SUCCESSORS.

The New General Ticket Agent Who Will Step Into Office on September 15th.

General Manager Waldo in a recent official circular sets at rest the question of who will be the successor of Walter G. Graham, late general ticket agent for Kansas and the Indian Territory.

On September 15, Mr. C. P. Rector, general freight agent of the M. K. & T., with headquarters at Parsons, will enter upon the duties of the office made vacant by Mr. Graham. Mr. Rector has been connected with the "Katy" for several years, and is perfectly familiar with the territory over which he has been placed in charge.

Mr. Graham, it is understood, has not yet entirely decided where he will cast his fortune, but Chicago is more than probably the place.

a bear hunt; I propose to kill a wagon load on my next trip. You see, I located the bear without any trouble, but after hearing a story told at the campfire one night I concluded that I needed a little more practice with the Sedalia Gun club."

"It seems that two young fellows from the east started out to kill all the grizzlies around Steamboat Springs several years ago. In the hunt they became separated, and when John found Bill, being attracted by a strange noise, something like water running down a sink, the only glimpse he caught of Bill was his cowhide boots slowly disappearing down a bear's throat. He took aim and the bear fell at the first shot. He immediately telegraphed to the unfortunate man's relatives that Bill had been killed by a bear, and they requested that the body be brought home. The bear was carefully boxed and placed on ice. It finally reached the east and as the tearful relatives gazed into the open box they frantically demanded to know how such a mistake could have been made.

"Oh," says John, "Bill is inside the bear!"

Will says the fear of Col. Crawford's sending him home in this condition made him lose his appetite for bears.

Lost His Tickets.

Eli Wright, of Dallas, Tex., came in on the "Katy" this morning

Death of Theresa Gardella.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gardella, now living at Portland, Oregon, will be pained to learn of the death of their daughter, Theresa, who died at the home of her uncle, John P. Pensa, No. 609 North Twenty-third street, in St. Louis, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, aged 15 years and 6 months. The funeral services will take place to-morrow at 2 p. m., and the little girl laid to rest in Calvary cemetery, St. Louis.

The little lady is well remembered in Sedalia, and her death is an occasion of much sorrow to her friends, who extend their sympathies to the bereaved parents in affliction. She was the only daughter.

In Ten Feet of Water.

The many Sedalians who have made the trip to St. Paul on the old steamer, Mary Norton, of the Diamond Jo line, will regret to know that she now lies sunk in ten feet of water below Clarksville, Mo. She sank Saturday morning. There were quite a number of passengers on board but none were injured.

"Kentucky Union" occupies the first page of the last edition of the Chicago American Trotter. The little queen looks her best and causes a great big lump to swell up in Sam Fuller's throat every time he looks at her.

CIRCULATION.

There are more Sedalia people regular readers of the EVENING DEMOCRAT than any other paper.

THE cool weather is no excuse for delaying the work of cleaning up the city.

THE next general assembly will devote much of its time to framing a better road law than the state has ever had.

GEN. STEVENSON is doing splendid campaign work, and it is more than probable that his labors will bring both Illinois and Indiana into line.

CLEVELAND is confident that the democracy will carry New York. All factional quarrels are buried and the party in the Empire state presents a solid front once more.

Is THERE anyone running against John T. Heard in this district? If so, where is he "at?"—Springfield Leader.

There is no one running against Heard. A couple of gentlemen, however, are contesting for second place.

WARNER was campaigning in Southwest Missouri last week and his organs delighted to refer to the inhabitants of that section of the state as "swamp angels" and "moss-backs." Now just watch those self-respecting Missourians resent the insults on the 8th of November.

FILLEY, the great "eliminated," can be counted upon for valuable assistance in the work of eliminating the men who eliminated him. He serves notice that his mouth is no longer sealed by the responsibility of leadership in his party and he can and will reply to all charges against him.

THE DEMOCRAT does not blame its radical contemporary for growing ill-natured at the circulation of Stone's St. Louis speech. It was the severest arraignment any party ever received and opened the eyes of decent, honest, patriotic republicans to the disgraceful history of radicalism in Missouri.

THE campaign of the northwest is to open the middle of the present month with eloquent and convincing speakers in the field and the people of the great farming states will hear appeals to reason and common sense rather than cheap demagoguery and ancient history with which an annual influx of republican orators has heretofore afflicted them. A quarter of a century ago, says the Detroit Free Press, they voted with the republican party and could give a reason for the faith that was in them, but since that time conditions have materially changed. Republicanism is not a fetish with them and they have only to be placed in the clear currents of thought, to see how far they have been removed from the dominant power of their party, how little their interests have been considered, and they are ready to disown an allegiance that has come to be more of a sentiment than a reality.

GIVE US MORE OF SUNSHINE.

A recent writer in the North American Review has the following forcible ideas upon a subject that had always been and ever will be, perhaps, a source of much argument:

"Why do we continue to wear mourning? The custom is outworn; it is an anachronism in the nineteenth century. It is unchristian; it clouds the spiritual significance of the resurrection with the ever present expression of temporal loss. It is cruel; it forces helpless and innocent people into action which entails a privation and unnecessary suffering. It is untruthful; it makes false outward show of changes in sentiment; and it is essentially vulgar, for it presses private affairs upon public notice; it thrusts claims of fashion and frivolity upon a time which most greatly moves the heights and depths of being, and it forces its superficial worldliness into the fiercest throes which can ever rend human nature."

To a calm, thinking mind, it is always a matter of curiosity why people should go to such extremes in manifesting sorrow over the death of their friends. Were this an unenlightened age and death surrounded by the fearful superstitions of mythology, then would there be an excuse for these "trappings of woe." Or, again, if it was thought that the departed had gone to the abodes of the damned, there would be an excuse for the customary mourning.

Centuries ago an old philosopher said that "no evil can befall a good man, whether he be alive or dead." This is the more proper way to look at the matter, and while surroundings and time-honored tradition may influence otherwise, yet why not mark with a white stone, as more in accordance with the divine will, the passing of a beloved one to the realms of the future? The race has been run, the battle fought and it is but the fate of all men to lie down and sleep. The skies are just as bright, the winds blow as softly and the flowers as bright and fragrant as they were before the dead took up the great problem of life. This tattered garment of mortality is scarcely worth the mending at any time, and it would certainly be most impious to say that the Great Ruler of All should do thus and thus in obedience to the shallow imaginings of man.

It certainly indicates a healthier tone to see less of black and more of calm confidence that the future is not one of terror and darkness. However poignant one's grief may be, let it be unostentatious.

THE FORCE BILL.

The efforts of republican spell binders, organs and organettes to repudiate the force bill as a campaign issue must cease. A declaration in its favor was embodied in the Minneapolis platform and has now received the unqualified indorsement of President Harrison. Any other course on his part, says the Free Press, would have branded him as an inconsistent, vacillating and unprincipled public man, a fact that possibly accounts for the open declaration embodied in his letter of acceptance. His influence and patronage were exerted for the passage of the infamous Lodge bill, and if his continuance in power be made possible he will again urge the adoption of that measure. James G. Blaine, the intellectual head of the republican party, was opposed to the bill as an unjust usurpation on the part of the federal government and even the presidential request did not restrain a free expression of Mr. Blaine's opinion.

At the Minneapolis convention the ex-Secretary of State was turned down and through those financially interested in the perpetuity of republican supremacy, Mr. Harrison, who, as Senator and President, had advocated the force bill, was renominated. This meant that if the National House of Representatives could be captured by the republicans, and Mr. Harrison elected, the force bill would be one of the first enactments placed upon the statute books. No evasion can now belittle this fact.

The force bill as a law means that in each state the federal republican judges shall appoint three partisan supervisors to take control of the returns from each congressional district, with power to throw out any township or county if they so choose. It means that deputy United States marshals may trample upon the rights of a state to control its own elections and be absolute in conducting affairs at the polls. To the south it means a revival of carpet-bag rule and negro domination. It means a repetition of the scenes of '76, when in the city of St. Louis alone 5,700 names were stricken from the registration lists and over 1,000 deputy marshals arrested hundreds of the best citizens on the morning of the election and held them until the polls closed. The next day, while the canvassing board was in session at the court house, W. D. W. Barnard, in charge of the federal forces, walked in, bearing all the insignia of office, and threatened the arrest of the entire board unless they rejected the vote of certain precincts. When he made his returns to Attorney-General Taft at Washington, he very gracefully announced that he had saved three congressmen, and in addition to his bill of $21,000, received these approving words from that official: "Yes, you have brought a good deal of sugar on your spade."

It is the desperate and lawless attempt of the republican party to retain its threatened power. It would make an interested party the sole judge of elections with its usurped power backed up by all the forces at the command of the federal government. It would be a usurpation of state rights and an assumption of federal power as dangerous as it would be wrong and unconstitutional. It would be the final step to the establishment of a republican domination.

THE Carnegie strike has settled down into the slow work of a boycott which will hardly accomplish anything, says the Springfield Leader. If the workmen of Pennsylvania wish to give Carnegie a blow and at the same time benefit the country at large, they will cast a vote for the tariff reform party in November.

THE poor old Gazette is still boasting of printing Warner's Sedalia speech "the day after it was delivered." That's nothing. The DEMOCRAT printed Stone's Sedalia speech the day it was delivered, and it was a much better speech than Warner's, too.

THE very small crowd which gathered at the court house to hear Mr. Leonard on last Saturday conclusively proves that the third party is making no headway in Pettis county.

STONE is making able speeches wherever he goes. Warner's effort has been worn threadbare and he has neither the heart nor the ability to prepare another.

ADM. WALKER.

Said to Have Received Vigorous Instructions.

HIS MISSION TO VENEZUELA.

Great Britain Not to Be Allowed to Seize the Mouth of the Orinoco River—Its Importance to Many Countries.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—There is good reason to believe that the sealed instructions received by Adm. Walker on board the Chicago entrusted him with a mission more important, perhaps, than any that has been confined to an American officer in recent years. The protracted conference which President Harrison held with Acting Secretary of State Adee on his recent visit to Washington; the long consultation between Secretary of the Navy Tracy and Mr. Adee before Adm. Walker's instructions were finally agreed upon; the carefully worded official statement given out through the press that Adm. Walker "was directed to pursue a vigorous course in dealing with the situation, especially in connection with foreign aggression," all are of significance on the supposition believed to be well founded, that Adm. Walker's mission to La Guyra with his squadron to proffer the friendly intervention of the United States to the Venezuelan authorities, whoever they may be, when the vessel arrives, in preventing the final absorption of Venezuela territory by Great Britain. Also to secure the restoration of the status quo as to boundaries as it existed prior to 1877 and obtain consent for the submission to arbitration of the question of title to the territory in dispute between the governments.

The keynote of the whole expedition is found in the following extract from a dispatch addressed to Mr. Blaine, before his resignation of the state department portfolio, by Mr. Peraza, the Venezuelan minister to Washington:

Hon. Mr. Blaine is already aware that agents of the government of Great Britain have taken possession, unduly and forcibly, of the port of Barima, at the mouth of the Orinoco, which up to this time has been possessed by Venezuela whose title is unquestioned. It is only necessary to glance at the map to see the vast importance of this aggressive step of Great Britain. When a European maritime power has once obtained a foothold at Barima, it absolutely controls the Orinoco river and its numerous affluents. Through that artery it may penetrate as far as the Rio de La Plata. Venezuela is, therefore, not the only American republic at the mercy of the naval power that gets control of the Orinoco river. Colombia, Peru, Bolivia, Brazil, the Argentine republic and Uruguay are likewise at its mercy. This is not a danger which threatens Venezuela alone; it threatens all America and is, perhaps, more serious than the possession of the Panama canal by a European power, since it would render nugatory the efforts which through the initiative of the United States government are now being made by the nations of America to draw closer their family bonds, to unify their interests and to have one and the same destiny in future. All these aspirations might be rendered fruitless by the presence and control in the Orinoco of so formidable a naval power as is Great Britain. Her vessels would enter the mouth of the river and would carry to the great centers of population her productions, her ideas and her exclusive interests.

WRECK ON THE FITCHBURG.

A Miracle That More Lives Were Not Lost.

Boston, Sept. 12.—Further particulars of the wreck on the Fitchburg railroad Saturday night state that when the freight engine struck the rear passenger car the pilot and cylinder boxes of the freight engine were poked underneath the forward truck of the rear passenger car, which made it almost impossible for any human being to escape without injury who occupied seats in that car. On the rear end of the ill-fated car a man's legs were dangling, the trunk being found a quarter of a mile down the track. The prevailing impression was that it was a tramp stealing a ride on the pilot of the freight engine or tucked away on the rear truck of the passenger car.

The rear brakeman of the passenger train, who shortly before the accident was sent back about 600 feet to notify the engineer of the freight train of danger ahead, states that he went back as directed and signaled the freight train, and his signal was answered by two whistles, which is the usual answer that all signals have been seen and noted. The reason for the collision, he feels sure, was that the engineer of the freight train could not control his train, which was of thirty cars, the greater part of them containing lumber, all very heavy.

Just at the point where the accident happened there is a straight stretch of track nearly a mile long, and under ordinary circumstances the rear lights on the passenger train could have been seen; but the fog, which was very thick at the time, made it impossible to see the most brilliant light even a quarter of a mile.

Cholera on the Scandia.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The number of new cases of cholera on the Scandia, this being the only one to present further development, are Marco Janowitz, aged 2½ years, whose mother accompanied her ashore to the island; Anna Olsen, aged 8 years, and Malke Mirske, aged 13 years, who were taken ill and removed to Swinburne island. There was only one death, that of Theodore Olsen, a three-year-old child, who was taken ill at 6 o'clock this morning and died at 8. There was another death on board the Scandia, but it was not from cholera.

Easily Frightened.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., Sept. 12.—Many men employed on the government fortifications at Sandy Hook have given up work and returned to their homes on account of the proximity of the cholera to their barracks. It was reported here that Lieut. Warner, in charge of the government works, had resigned.

Secretary Hester, of the New Orleans cotton exchange, shows by figures that the cotton movement for the new year beginning September 1 is not so large as in the two preceding years.

FIRE ISLAND.

Neighboring Places Resist Its Use For Cholera Purposes.

PEOPLE RECKLESS AND LAWLESS.

Isle and Babylon Claim That Their Rights are Paramount to Those of the State and Threaten to Resist the Health Officers.

SURF HOTEL, FIRE ISLAND, N. Y., Sept. 12.—There has been more excitement at Fire Island than during the whole summer season. The sale of the place to the state for quarantine purposes has created a great hubbub among the towns of Islip and Babylon, who predict all kinds of dire calamities with the result of the landing of the passengers from vessels infected with cholera upon the beach.

Saturday night after the news was received that Gov. Flower had given orders to buy the island the board of health of the town of Islip, in which Fire Island is, called a mass meeting of citizens of the town to protest against landing of passengers at any place within the town jurisdiction. Suffolk where the meeting was held, was crowded when Supervisor W. H. Young, the president of the board of health, called it to order. Speeches were made by many prominent residents, who denounced the proposed use of the island, predicting great injury to the property adjoining and the ruin of the oyster and fish industries of the great south bay. A committee consisting of Supervisor Young, Justice Clerks Studley, O'Brien and Howell, Dr. W. A. Baker and J. S. Gilbert constituting a board of health, was appointed to go to Fire Island with twenty deputy constables to protest against the use of the island for quarantine purposes and to resist the landing of passengers.

They left in sail boats late at night arriving there in the morning. The deputies were placed on guard when President Charles W. Wilson and Dr. Cyrus Edson, of the New York board of health, who had come to Babylon by a special train, arrived in a sail boat at 8 o'clock in the morning. They were quickly surrounded by the deputies, who made demonstrations against Dr. S. Sammis, owner of Fire Island, making all kinds of threats against him for selling it.

President Wilson informed Mr. Sammis that Governor Flower had authorized the purchase for $210,000, and that he had a certified check for $50,000 to pay as soon as the papers were signed. Mr. Sammis then turned it over to President Wilson as the representative of Health Officer Jenkins, all the guests and most of the servants having left Saturday afternoon. When President Wilson appeared after breakfast, the local board of health and a hundred others from the main land, the crowd mostly of boys and men, made demonstrations, using threats against the state, Mr. Sammis and everybody concerned.

Coroner W. H. Moore of Bay Shore continually harangued them. At 11 o'clock President Wilson met the board of health, explained all the circumstances of the purchase and the intended use of the island. Supervisor Young and Dr. Baker stated that it would ruin the property and industries and endanger the health of the adjoining communities, and asserted that the local board of jurisdiction was paramount to the state board and would resist any attempt to land passengers.

At the time of the sending of this dispatch affairs were assuming a serious aspect at Fire Island. Although only 7:30 o'clock in the evening this will likely be the last word sent, as it has transpired that the sympathizers of the local board of health have been considering the feasibility of cutting off all telegraphic communication between Fire Island and the city. The men from Islip and other points on the main shore appear to have decided to bid defiance both to the bidding of Gov. Flower and the instructions of the state board of health. They seem to have become utterly lawless as well as reckless. As it grew dark men who had been concealed in the shadows of outbuildings began to move about more freely, as if they were certain of concealing their identity. Pickets were posted and a regular system of signals was arranged. There was no telling the exact number of men thus engaged on the island, but there could not have been fewer than fifty and there may have been double that number.

What Will the Atchison Do?
CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—A passenger rate war in transcontinental territory is now imminent, as a result of the failure of the interested roads to adjust their differences. The Atchison people have been in close conference, and it is supposed that they were considering the advisability of putting into effect at once the notice given several months ago for the establishment of a second-class rate of $14.70 from the Missouri river to California points. They are expected to announce their decision within twenty-four hours.

The Whittier Funeral.
AMESBURY, Mass., Sept. 12.—The body of John Greenleaf Whittier was brought from Hampton Falls and taken to the poet's former home on Friend street, where it lay in state from 12 until 2 o'clock, during which time the public took a last view of all that remained of the honored dead. After the Quaker service the body was taken to the cemetery and lowered to its last resting place. The grave was closed with an arched brick roof.

A Wire Walker Killed.
LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Bina Croya, a wire walker, while performing at Burlington Beach slipped and fell. Her chin caught the wire in her descent and she was thrown thirty feet. She alighted on her head, fracturing it in two places, and death ensued an hour afterwards.

John James, aged 20, was drowned in Red river, near Honey Grove, Tex., while trying to ride a horse across.

RECALCITRANT CHINAMEN.

The "Six Companies" Urging Chinamen Not to Register.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—The Consolidated Benevolent Association of the Six Companies, a powerful Chinese organization, better known as "The Six Companies," which comprises all the wealthy Chinese merchants of the country and which, together with the Chinese consular officers, regulates the affairs of the Chinese in this country, has issued a proclamation from headquarters in this city, forbidding Chinese in the United States to comply with the terms of the Geary bill, requiring them to register and have themselves identified by two white witnesses and be photographed before April, 1893.

The proclamation states that the members of the Six Companies, after a careful investigation, have found that the registration law is objectionable and detrimental to their interests. It continues:

"Our countrymen must live in these United States without being registered. Our countrymen must not get registered, and if one should do so on his own account he must not come to us in case he gets into trouble in this country."

"The Six Companies will pay no attention to him if he does. When a man does register he loses respectability in the eyes of his countrymen. This applies to Chinamen living in any part of the country and in small towns as well as large cities. If, by refusing to register, a man is imprisoned or punished, he can depend on the Six Companies for relief."

The proclamation states that Chinese will be required to organize and subscribe money for the employment of legal aid and if necessary enlist the services of the Chinese ambassadors to fight against this alleged injustice. Two lawyers have been engaged here by the Six Companies.

Each Chinese resident of the United States is required to pay $1 to the Six Companies for the expense of a suit to test the legality of the registration law and this money must be paid before Chinese September. The Chinamen who do not pay will be prevented from returning to his own country when he applies to the Six Companies for his pass.

The proclamation concludes by saying that the United States does not treat the Chinese right, because it compels no other nation to do such things, and no other nation in the world treats the Chinese as the United States does. Collector Quinn was seen regarding the action of the Six Companies, and said:

"The Chinese have so far neglected to register, but I do not believe they will absolutely refuse to do so. We had eight men who had shipped as mess boys on one of the United States cruisers come around to register, and after explaining the matter they went to get their pictures taken. They have not returned yet, but we expect they will show up in a day or two."

"It is too early to say what we propose doing in the matter, but we will get up a good test case when the time comes. The law does not only state that after May 5, 1893, Chinese without registration certificates must be deported, but it also carries an extra penalty of imprisonment for not over a year. There is another provision which provides for the punishment of those who refuse to register."

Attorney Riordan, who has been engaged by the Six Companies, asserts that the law is clearly unconstitutional.

CHOLERA IN EUROPE.

No Abatement as at One Time Expected—Three Cases Out of Five Fatal.

HAMBURG, Sept. 12.—Expectations as to the abatement of the plague have not been realized in the last two days. Saturday there were 821 new cases or twenty-two more than on Friday. Yesterday there were 798 fresh cases or twelve fewer than Saturday and 281 deaths or twenty-four more than Saturday. The number of persons in cholera hospitals and barracks Saturday was 3,124 and yesterday was 3,239. A city physician says that the average rate of mortality has been three cases in five. The most conservative figures place the number of cases at 12,000 and the number of deaths at 7,000. The number of burials was 457 on Saturday and yesterday 475, or so far in excess of the number of deaths that the city's hospitals are believed to be practically free from dead bodies.

St. PETERSBURG, Sept. 12.—The cholera statistics show that 2,336 new cases of the disease and 1,869 deaths occurred throughout Russia Saturday. In this city during the same time eighty-one new cases and thirty deaths were reported.

HAYRE, Sept. 12.—In this city seven new cases of cholera and five deaths from the disease were reported Saturday.

QUARANTINE AT DETROIT.

Health Officials Hold Immigrants a Few Days.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 12.—Fifty or sixty immigrants, who arrived at Windsor, Ont., over the Canadian Pacific railway from Quebec, are held there to await the decision of the Detroit health officials as to whether they could enter this city. They arrived at Quebec Friday, where they were inspected by the health officials and fumigated. Certificates to this effect were furnished them. Government Inspector Mulhern has decided to have them stopped at Windsor pending a conference with the city officers. The sixty immigrants who were stopped at the border Friday night have been released from quarantine by the decision of Dr. Frank Willis of the state board of health.

Only a Sensational Rumor.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Sept. 12.—Something of a scare was created last night on a rumor that an attempt would be made to blow up a mill by dynamite. The report came from Braddock and when Deputy Sheriff Gray was informed of it additional guards were placed about the property, but nothing transpired to give color to the story. It is generally believed to have had no foundation.

CHOCTAW WAR.

The Election For Principal Chief Stirs Up Hatred.

FOUR MEN ALREADY SHOT DEAD.

The "Progressive" Gang Said to Have Marked Others For Slaughter—Everybody Armed—Gov. Jones to Call Out His Light Horsemen.

MCALISTER, I. T., Sept. 12.—As has been frequently predicted the heat of the campaign between the two parties composing the Choctaw nation has resulted in bloodshed.

Saturday morning a party of about twenty-five Indians surrounded the home of Joe Hokletubbe, a full blood Choctaw, one mile south of Hartshorne, and calling him out riddled him with bullets, nineteen shots having penetrated his body. The gang then proceeded to the homes of Elias Colbert, Robertson Nelson and Frank Frazier, all of whom they mercilessly shot down. Frazier's wife and mother-in-law were witnesses to his death and Mrs. Frazier saw one of the murderous gang shoot Colbert in the back. These women claim to have recognized at least four of the outlaws.

The murdered men are full blood Choctaw Indians, said to belong to the "progressive" party, while it is alleged that the mob who killed them belonged to the opposing party and did the killing through political animosity only. The election for principal chief, which occurred August 3, was hotly contested and no doubt was close. Although nothing definite can be obtained as to the result until the national council canvasses the ballots at their next sitting, it is feared that the trouble has only just commenced.

An armed posse of Indians was in this city at daybreak Sunday morning well mounted, equipped and enthused for trouble. It is reported that other killings will occur, prominent amongst which will be Hon. Green McCurtain, the national treasurer, who has long been prominent in both Choctaw and United States politics, and Abner Persley, a member of the Choctaw legislature. The local authorities have issued a call upon Principal Chief Wilson N. Jones for assistance in subduing the outlawry and in the capture of the gang.

Gov. Jones will proceed to the scene at once and will call his light horsemen to his aid. This is a mounted brigade of about forty-five experienced fighters who, it is anticipated, will speedily quell the disturbance without the necessity of further reinforcements. It is claimed that the leaders of the gang are Mose Williams, Kingsbury Hawkins, Thomas McGee and Colonel Bert Thompson.

Later reports are that five men have been killed on what is called Brushy bottoms, though the report has not been verified. An armed posse of about seventy-five men has been organized at South McAlester, a suburb of this place, in which the United States courts is in session, and the little town presents an appearance of war. Every man to be seen is armed to the teeth and the streets are crowded. The Indians, of course, predominate, as it is exclusively their fight. There is, however, not the slightest bit of boisterousness and everyone preserves a silence that is ominous. Everywhere is evidence of the Indians' determination to do or die. There will be 200 men fully equipped scouring from this point alone and if the opposing parties meet there will certainly be a severe contest, the result of which no one dare predict.

WEAK ON HIS LEGS.

What Sullivan is Said to Have Said After the Fight.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 12.—A gentleman just returned from New Orleans says that Sullivan, after the fight, said to him, while bemoaning his defeat: "I ought to have been smart enough to retire after my last fight. Why, I won from Jake Kilrain by a scratch, and my legs were far from being right in that fight. This young fellow is clever. Why, he hit me whenever he pleased and whenever he pleased, and I could not reach him. I knew at the close of the fifth round that I had but one hope for victory. I realized clearly that unless I could land a knock-out blow I was gone. I gave the youngster openings that I never offered to any living man before, in the hope that he would rush in and get within range of my right. He fooled me. No bait was tempting enough to trap him. My legs have not been good for several years. I will have to admit that now. 'They talk of Corbett and Jackson. Why, I believe this young fellow would eat Jackson up if they should ever meet again.'"

One Tough Kills Another.

LIBERTY, Mo., Sept. 12.—One of the most cold blooded murders that has taken place in this town for many years occurred in the shooting of Sidney Creek by his son-in-law, Joe Hamilton, about 2:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The killing was indirectly the result of bad blood existing between the two for some months past. Both were hard cases and both were in liquor at the time of the killing. Creek belonged to the Quantrell gang during the war.

The Peary Expedition.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 12.—The Peary expedition, which left this port in the summer of 1891 to make explorations in north Greenland, returned here to-day on the Kite. One member of the party (Verhoef) lost his life in the ice fields around McCormick Bay. Otherwise the expedition met no serious mishap.

Killed By Lightning.

ARCHISON, Kan., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Anna McCurt, wife of Barney McCurt, and daughter of John Delaney, both well known here, was killed by lightning during a thunderstorm Saturday evening. She had started out of the house and was struck while in an open doorway.

UNDESIRABLE HEBREWS.

The Most Dangerous Immigration of Modern Times.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The action of the local government board last week in authorizing the exclusion of immigrants not able to give an address in the United Kingdom was prompted by the action of the American president in issuing his order for a twenty days' quarantine of all immigration ships. It was feared that the influx of Russian Jews, regarding which the people of Great Britain are already sufficiently impatient, would be diverted altogether to Great Britain, and that the larger cities to which these people invariably throng would be over crowded with them.

A well known statistician, who has made immigration a study, said that the movement of the Russian Jews was the most dangerous immigration known to history since the days of Attila, and in some respects it was infinitely more to be dreaded by civilized communities. He said that all sorts of deception had been resorted to in order to get these miserable refugees into England and America without exciting public suspicion.

They were sent in batches to Glasgow, to Liverpool, Havre and other places, in order that the volume of their emigration by way of Hamburg, which was their principal port of departure, should not attract too much attention. They were told to call themselves Austrians, Persians or Germans in a general way, and anything but Russian Jews. They were instructed to represent themselves as desirous of working on farms, in order to allay the impressions of the people in the cities, but not one in 10,000 had any idea of remaining on a farm, even if a pretense should be made of entering upon agricultural work. If they wanted to do farming the statistician said they had ample opportunity in the Argentine republic, to which a number had been sent, but those sent there had not only refused to work, but had attacked the people appointed to take care of them.

What they really wanted, added the statistician, was to crowd into the cities and make a living at peddling or something of the kind.

Everybody is confident here of the correctness of Prof. Koch's statement, made after thorough examination, that the Russian emigrants brought the cholera to Hamburg, and there is little doubt that they brought it also to Liverpool. Many of them who have gone to America by way of Liverpool are indescribably filthy. Their clothes appear to have been worn for months.

A Steamer Snagged.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.—The steamer Mary Morton, of the Diamond Jo line, struck a snag near Clarksville, Mo., seventy-five miles above here on the Mississippi river, and sank in ten minutes. Loss on boat and cargo, $25,000. No passengers were lost or injured.

A Conductor's Brave Act.

From the Pittsburg Post.

Passenger Conductor Burroughs performed a brave action last evening and saved two lives. His train, the first section of No. 6, had stopped at a station near this city. A man and boy jumped off at the wrong side just as a freight train came bowling along from the opposite direction. There was but scant room between the two trains, and in the dusk of the evening the danger to the two by the slightest deviation from the narrow way was imminent, especially as No. 6 had begun to move. They were liable to be caught by either. Conductor Burroughs saw their peril and was prompt to act. Jumping from his moving train, he grasped the two strangers and forced them to the ground between the trains, telling them to lie down, which he did himself. They were just in time. It was only after the trains had rumbled past each other that that man and boy realized what a close call they had, and they warmly thanked Mr. Burroughs.

SULLIVAN ON BOARD.

A Laughable Scene on an M. K. & T. Train.

Considerable good natured sport was created on M. K. & T. train No. 4 from the south yesterday, says the Parsons Sun, and as Conductor Jack Truitt, who, as everybody knows, is as fond of playing jokes as any man on earth, was in charge of the train, he of course was the instigator of all the amusement. Denny Sullivan, the well-known trainmaster of the Denison section of the road, boarded the train at Denison and came as far as this city. Conductor Truitt saw that there was an opportunity to work a joke, which he did to the queen's taste. Hardly had daylight appeared when Truitt remarked to his brakeman, Percy Bowen, loud enough for a number of passengers to hear, "that Sullivan was aboard the Chicago sleeper and that he didn't look as though he had been roughly handled." Percy caught onto Truitt's point, and soon a flood of questions were poured into him about Sullivan, and before half an hour passed the whole train was fairly alive with excitement, and a regular stampede was made for the sleeper, even Johnny McDougall, the baggage-man, didn't catch onto the joke, and after "slinking up," he too fled back into the sleeper to see Sullivan, but imagine his surprise when he found that instead of the ex-champion pugilist, John L., it was only Trainmaster Sullivan. A passenger on board the train told a Sun reporter that it was one of the most laughable incidents that has occurred on the road for a long time.

Fixing Up.

The Parsons Sun has the following: The improvement now going on in the brick building at the corner of Forest avenue and 18th street leased by the M. K. & T. railroad, are progressing rapidly and the building will be thoroughly refitted and overhauled. Elegant office rooms are being partitioned off in the second story to be occupied by Chief Engineer Wilson, Resident Engineer Thurston, Superintendent of Bridges and Buildings Martin and Attorney Sedgwick. When the improvements are completed the office of General Roadmaster Rockwell, now at Sedalia, will be removed to this city and he will also be assigned quarters in the building.

Conductor Ed. Lord, of the M. K. & T., who has been laying off for weeks, suffering with a severe attack of rheumatism, seems to grow better slowly and he left last night for the hospital at Sedalia for treatment. Ed is one of the oldest freight conductors on the road and his many friends off and on the road sincerely hope he may soon be recovered to perfect health.—Parsons Sun.

Superintendent of Transportation Sweeney, of the M. K. & T., returned yesterday morning from Chicago, where he has been rustling for freight cars to supply the demands now being made on the company for shippers.... Wm. O'Herin, superintendent of motive power and machinery on the M. K. & T., returned yesterday from a business trip to Texas.... General Superintendent Frey, of the M. K. & T., returned yesterday morning from an inspection trip over the Hannibal and Sedalia divisions of the road.—Parsons Sun.

To the People of Sedalia.

Having decided to commence business for myself, I wish to state to the people of Sedalia that I am prepared to do all kinds of house painting and graining upon short notice and in strictly first-class style. For two years I have been in the employ of Geo. E. Dugan & Son, and have had nineteen years' experience in my trade. My work is of the first order and is artistic in every detail. Trusting that the people of this city will favor me with their orders, I am, very respectfully,
O. G. NORDBERG.

SEWER WORK COMMENCED.

The Extension of the Main Sewer Outside of the City Limits a Great Benefit.

Work was commenced this morning on the extension of the main sewer beyond the city limits. The city has voted $10,000 for this much needed improvement and it will certainly be a great blessing to the people living in that vicinity. Throughout the present summer they have been almost stifled by the noxious stench arising from this sewer.

A good force of men is at work and the sewer will be completed as soon as possible.

Sedalia's sewerage system is as good as that of any city in the state, and yet the city fathers are anxious to make it even better. There are few instances in which public money can be better spent than in establishing a perfect sewerage system.

LEWIS UNDER ARREST.

One of the Embezzlers in the Hands of the Pinkertons.

From the Kansas City Journal.

Montgomery H. Lewis, the defaulting office auditor of the Lombard Investment company, was arrested yesterday, and will be returned to the city as soon as the proper papers for his return can be executed. Ex-Treasurer Russell is not yet known to be arrested, but if not, the Pinkerton officials state that he will be within a short time, as his whereabouts is known. Where Lewis was apprehended the detectives will not state, nor will any official of the company, and it is believed that the men are not in the City of Mexico.

A gentleman living in Kansas City said yesterday that Russell had been seen in Butte, Mont., within the past twenty days by a friend who knew him intimately. "I have just returned from Butte," said the gentleman, "and in that city I met an old friend of mine and in the course of our conversation he remarked that he had seen Henry Russell the day before. Mr. Russell said that he was traveling for the Lombard Investment company and should go from Butte to the Pacific coast. He also said that Russell made inquiry regarding transportation and steamers to Japan, and from his conversation one would imagine that he had a trip to Japan in prospect."

An official of the Lombard Investment Company was seen yesterday by a Journal reporter, and that gentleman is authority for the statement that he had positive knowledge that no indictments had been returned by the Jackson county grand jury of any one connected with the Lombard company, other than against Lewis and Russell, and that no other arrests had been contemplated by the officials of the company. He further stated that it was the belief of the company that neither Lewis nor Russell knew of the other's embezzling at the time it was committed, although now it was beyond doubt that each knew of it and had known of it for several months.

A Sad Death.

Miss Kate McNally, niece of Patrick McEnroe, died at 8:15 Saturday evening at the home of her uncle, No. 1122 East Third street. The cause of death was consumption.

Miss McNally was a bright, sweet girl, and was beloved by all who knew her. She was an artist of fine ability and was educated at a convent at Niagara Falls, Ontario. The young lady had been in poor health for a long time, and death was a relief to her. The funeral services takes place to-morrow at 10 o'clock from St. Vincent de Paul church, Father Murphy officiating.

Death of an Infant.

The wife of Fireman Will Zoll gave birth to a little babe this morning which lived but a short time. The mother is in a most precarious condition.

Died.

Mrs. W. Falder died Saturday night at 8 o'clock, of consumption, at her home on Pacific street. She was buried this morning.

THE GRAND PASS RALLY.

Sound Democratic Doctrine Preached to the People.

The first big democratic rally in this county was held at this place yesterday, says a Grand Pass special of the 11th inst. to the Kansas City Times.

There were in attendance about 2,000 visitors, despite the threatening weather and the fact that it rained for a while in the forenoon. Charles E. Yeater, candidate for state senator from this district, delivered a rousing address in the forenoon, and after a bountiful dinner on the grounds, Senator F. M. Cockrell occupied the speaker's stand.

THE ESCAPE INSTINCT.

Its Existence Noted Even in Domesticated Animals.

In a review of an interesting work by Prof. Weismann, on "Heredity in Man and Beast," in the Sunday Times of July 31, it is remarked that the author believes the escape instinct has been lost in domesticated animals by their long domestication, the absence of enemies during many generations having had the effect of extinguishing this natural fear of the human race, and consequently they evince no desire to escape from the closest acquaintance with persons. My long experience as a breeder of all kinds of farm stock, including dogs and cats and other small animals, convinces me that this belief is not founded on fact, but that this natural fear is as active in young domestic animals as it is in wild animals, with the exception that in imitation of the parents the fear soon disappears. This is true of the horse, mule, calf, lamb, turkey, chicken, dog, cat and rabbit, in all of which this natural desire to escape from a person is as strong for a few days, and until acquaintance has eliminated the natural fear, as the wild animals of the same races.

The hiding of the young animal by the dam is an example of this instinctive fear, even on the part of the parent, who is evidently loth to expose her progeny to risk. This is clearly instinctive, for I have known one of the gentlest heifers, when she had a calf, to make a sudden attack upon the person who had reared her and fed her, and exhibit the most violent ferocity when persons previously entirely acceptable approached her.

All kinds of domestic animals will conceal their young at birth, and the young animals will flee with evident fear when the owner comes upon their hiding place. And although this natural repugnance will soon disappear, it is only through the introduction, as it were, of the parent, who at the same time anxiously regards the owner as the possible enemy, to the foal or calf. I have known a two-days-old calf, when its hiding place was discovered, to run four miles in its effort to escape, and resist capture with all the energy of a wild deer, and when it afterward escaped plunged into a pond and swam several hundred feet and got away on the other side.

Pigs born in the woods become as wild and ferocious the first generation as the true wild boar, and there are thousands of such pigs at large in the southern woods that resemble in their disposition in every respect the wild boars of the Black forest of Germany. The natural habit of the mule to kick is an attribute of this instinct. A young mule will kick its owner quite fiercely when it is first able to stand upon its legs, and will hide behind the mare and even bite when it is approached too closely. The lambs of a flock at large on a range are equally averse to the shepherd, and will escape from close acquaintance until use has helped to wear off the instinctive fear.

The sole difficulty in rearing young turkeys is this same instinctive disposition to escape and hide. Even in the yard the young brood will squat as closely as a wild brood or a covey of young partridges or quail. And if the observer remains still they will creep away as stealthily through the grass or leaves and in a moment will disappear as though the ground had swallowed them up.

I have some young cats, the kittens of a cat left at my home six years ago, but which, on my return a few weeks ago, came up voluntarily, and after a close reconnaissance recognized me and came up and rubbed against my legs and purred loudly. She was so friendly that the next morning, on my way to the train for the city, she tried to follow me until ordered to return. She remembered her old habit, which was to accompany me to the turn of the road, and there wait until I was out of sight. If domestication had the effect of removing the natural effort to escape, one would think that this cat's kittens would be the tamest and least desirous to avoid a person with whom the mother cat was friendly. But quite otherwise. These kittens are the wildest I have ever known, and now, two months old, they are as prone to escape in the thickest of the shrubbery as the wild rabbits when they are approached too closely.

Even the young chickens evince this same instinct, especially those of the more active and least sociable breeds, as the Leghorns and other flighty kinds. The hens conceal their nests with all the instinctive adroitness of the wild birds, the young chickens run away or hide, and those from the hidden nests are by far the wildest.

Why is all this thus if it is not the instinct of fear that still overcomes the centuries of domestication, and proves the fact that the escape instinct prevails over the influence of domestication, which is an education slowly gained and which has not yet had time to become an inherited instinct? And this opens the question, do domestication and education ever overcome instinct, but is not natural instinct always prevalent in an animal, appearing at birth and only slowly overcome by training, in some animals more slowly or more easily than in others?—N. Y. Times.

The Parsee.

The Parsee, untrammelled by his surroundings, is seen in Bombay in all his wealth of height and dress. The men are without exception tall, finely formed and stately and possess a robustness and beauty quite at contrast with their Hindoo neighbors. Their street costume is a peculiar, long white cotton gown, wide trousers of the same material and color and a tall miter-shaped hat. They have a general reputation for sobriety, frugality and sagacity and they seem to thoroughly understand accumulation of fortunes—in this respect resembling the Hebrews. The wealthiest residents of Bombay are Parsees.—Washington Star.

"Do you enjoy good health, Mr. Testy?" asked McQueary. "Yes, when I get any," snapped the old dyspeptic.
